POLITICAL CATECHISM FOR CHILDREN.

is the boast of the United States that our children imbibe political knowledge almost with their mother's milk, and that our boys at school nor experience of pointest affairs which proof surpassed by that of average citizens of post foreign countries. We are not surprised, therefore, that we have received the following POLITICAL CATEORISM, which appears to have Desig prepared by some very sensible. American motion for the sake of her boys, and we com-

QUESTION.—What is compromise? Axswert.—Compromise is giving the robber rour purse, your watch, your coat, and your poots, on condition that he leaves your shirtcollar:

Question.-What is a fratricidal war. ANSWER .- A featricidal wag is putting down thieves and traitors who happen to be your fellow-countrymen. The United States engaged in a fratricidal war when they chased and caught the traitor Burr; and they would have undertaken a fratricidal war against the traitor Arnold, in uncommonly short order, if they could have got at him.

QUESTION.—What is liberty of the press?

Answer.—The liberty of the press, as understood by the framers of the Constitution, is the right of publishing what you will, provided no one is injured thereby; but the liberty of the press, as understood by the friends of Jeff Davis. s the right of playing the sneak thief when one has not the courage to play the burglar.

QUESTION.—What is Slate sovereignty?

ANSIVER.—State sovereignty, my dear, is a fine phrase under which men choose the laws which they will obey and the laws which they will break. It is annurchy raised into a system.

Question .- What is neutrality, mama ! Axswer,—Neutrality, my dear, is meanly shirking your duty as a citizen, and helping the enemy in a cowardly underliand way. A man who stands by and sees a poor fellow beaten to death by a rowdy is a neutral, and the model of those who are neutral in the present war.

QUESTION.-What is the cause of the pres

Answen .- This war, my dear, is the last dying struggle of slavery as a political power. If you have read history aright, you must have learned that all great and powerful systems or The Roman Catholic hierarchy, the divine right monarchies, the feudal digarchies, all struggled very hard before they gave way to common sense and the rights of the Just so slavery, as an element of political power, is now making its last dying struggle, and you may depend upon it, it will fight to the lust—But if you have read your Bible right, and have the true instincts of a free born American boy in you, you can not doubt how the contest will oud.—Harpers Weekly.

DISAPPOINTMENT.

It cannot be concented that we have men our troops to carry the entrenchments behind Fredericksburg, and in the subsequent withdrawal of the army to the north of the Rappahannock, which had been so brilliantly crossed a day or two previously. It is a bitter disap-The comments which the event suggests, however, are only those which at pres making are content to forbear from making .-We are willing to submit with patience and without discouragement to the reverses that fall over every obstacle.

The military events of the last few days have at least had this good result, that our people will now be more tolerant of a policy of insection for the winter months, should that be decided upon at headquarters as the most advisable policy to he pursued. It is with no purpose of re-opening the discussion of queetions which for the present must remain in abeyance that we make the obvious remarks that delays will now he justifed to General the tree where I am setting injuring no one. Burnside, which were made the ground of complaint when the army was under the command of General McClelian. General Burneide, we doubt not, has done the very best he could. He has been admirably scouded by his soldiers, warmly supported by the government and by the public epinion of the country; he has ondertaken to press forward, and he has met with a repulse.

It has been intimated, that General Burnthins communication, and side was well aware of the impossibility of carrying the enemy's position, behind Fredericks burg, and that it was his principal object in Saturday's battle to convice the public of something that he knew himself. There is thus much to support this view of the subject, that re suppose a general in such circumstances those wounded from Newport, in Co. I, and will land in a few days to extend his aid. He will make makes up goods belonging to her customers and to have annot be be found of the number of the sumo, and to be found of the number of the sumo, and to be found of the number of the sumo, and to be found of the number of the sumo, and to be found of the number of the sumo, and to be found of the number of the sumo, and to be found of the number of the sumo, and to be found of the number of the sumo, and to be found of the number of the sumo, and to be found of the number of the sumo, and to be found of the sumo, and to be found of the sumo, and to be found of the number of the sumo, and to be found of the sumo, and to be found of the sumo, and to be found of the number of the sumo, and to be found of the sumo, and to be found of the number of the sumo, and to be found of the sumo, and to be found of the number of the sumo, and to be found of the number of the sumo, and to be found of the number of the sumo, and to be found of the number of the sumo, and to be found of the number of the sumo, and to be found of the number of the sumo, and to be found of the number of the sumo of the number of the sumo of the sum of th of soldiers could do, was done on Saturday; We fulled because the improvements in modern in column. The task was difficult, storming party was met by the fire of the old smooth-bores, which were effective within a is all from range of one hundred yards. The long range of modern rifle-muskets, deadly at a distance of a thousand yards, have multiplied many times the dangers of the undertaking, and what was formerly difficult has now perhaps become impossible. If this view be correct, it is said, very said to think, that the lives, of our friends were needed to advance the good cause of the government in this particular way that is, to whatever it may be, that the leaders of the army decide upon as the best. No doubt, it is of the highest importance to: secure the sympathy and support for all the proceedings of the army; but we are sorry that the result must be purchased at the expense of precious blood.-Our people ought to give their confidence thoroughly and earnestly, not sell it at so high a price. The men who have died in the late listities, have died gloriously lighting for the ware of the Union. It is a sad thing if Northera querulousness rather than Southern disloyalty makes necessary these offerings on the alter. of the count ry.

To day there is more calmness, and less heaty prejudice. The disaster is understood? the blame first moderated; and less openly charged, but still harbored; the hope a peg higher. A disposition is shown to put less blame upon Buruside; his test is made less severe. I can say that McClellan is still at the Fifth Avenue Hotel. No special train was ordered as reported; the false glare thrown. upon the events is entirely unfounded. Although less severity is manifested toward Burnside, though less open abuse is given him, there are yet plenty that the first victory impired, made the after relapse of more chagrin. this determination, and abstain from complaints which can have no other effect than to weaken the power of the government, we must still selection at strong hope that no such policy will be found necessary. The army, we believe, is now in ordellent condition for fighting. There is no longer any difficulty about shoes, clothing, or rations. The term of enlistment of the nine months' men is wearing away, and thee regiments must be regarded just now in the prime of their efficiency. With such a force in such good condition we hope it may be within the plans of the generals in command to atrike somewhere a decisive blow from which the military strength of the rebellion may find it difficult to recover.

HEADQUARTERS, Thursday, Dec. 18.

Yesterday the rebels sent, under a flag of truce, request that we would bury our dead. A bury ng party accordingly went over and continued their labors to-day. During the truce, Cul. Walton, Chief of Longstreet's artillery, informed some of our officers that the rebel infantry force engaged on Summer's front on Saturday, was only two brigades, but that they had a large reserve near by. He said our men showed great bravery, but he considered the rebel position impregnable, and that a force of 500,000 would find it an impossi- 700 at Alexandria. from the fact that they were protected by a stonewall and rifle pits. Our losses, as heretofore reported, has been considerably decreased by arriv als of stragglers in camp. The enemy took marly 800 prisoners from us; a considerable portion of them were taken from their camps when we evacnated the south side of the river. The prisoners taken en both sides have been paroled.

It is stated that Lee and Longstreet came down to-day and held a conversation with some of our officers. The flag of truce was withdrawn to-night after all our dead were builed.
